

Michele Mackin

Ms. Mackin is a Director at the U.S. Government Accountability Office, in the Acquisition and Sourcing Management team. In this capacity, she provides direct support to congressional committees and members. Ms. Mackin joined GAO in 1988 as an evaluator in the National Security and International Affairs Division, focusing largely on military airlift issues. Prior to her appointment to the Senior Executive Service, Ms. Mackin led complex reviews of federal contracting issues including such topics as Alaska Native Corporations, interagency contracting for interrogator services in the early days of the Iraq war, and numerous reviews of high-risk contract types, such as sole-source contracts. She has also led a body of work on the Coast Guard's Deepwater recapitalization project and other reviews of acquisition and contracting issues across federal agencies. As a Director, Ms. Mackin is leading reviews of Navy shipbuilding programs, Department of Homeland Security acquisition management, and government wide contracting issues.

Prior to GAO, Ms. Mackin served for two years as a Peace Corps volunteer in the Republic of Zaire. She also worked for private, non-profit organizations in New Orleans and Washington, D.C. Ms. Mackin has received, among other recognitions, GAO's meritorious service and client service awards. She has a bachelor's degree in English literature from Louisiana State University and a master's degree in public administration from George Washington University.
